I write this column while at the National League of Cities Congressional Conference in Washington, D.C. It's not the first time I've attended this conference, but it is the first time I've done so as mayor. As mayor and city council, we come here to learn, network and meet with our US senators and representatives in their D.C. offices. Each time we attend, I think the most apparent take-home message is how fortunate we are to live in St. George! I know we aren't problem-free, but I'll take our challenges any day over the ones many of the cities in our country face. What I hope to do is learn from other cities and avoid as many of the pitfalls as possible as we grow and evolve as a city.

I've occupied the position of mayor for months several now. It has been busy, and I'm pleased with what we've accomplished together in this short time. Some notable items are:

- The council appointed Bette Arial to the city council to fill the spot vacated when I was sworn in as mayor.

- We changed the regular city council meeting start time from 4:00 PM to 5:00 PM to make the meeting more convenient for citizens to attend. City council work meetings, which are also open to the public, continue to start at 4:00 PM since they generally don't include public hearings or action items.

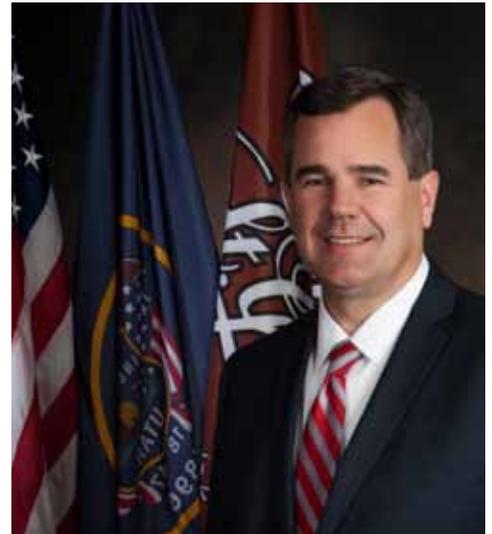

- "Comments from the Public" is now the first agenda item on the first Thursday of each month at the regular city council meeting at 5:00 PM. We will generally take 15 minutes for these public comments, and there are three rules:

1. We will be respectful in our communication.
2. Those who wish to comment must be residents of St. George.
3. The topic cannot be one that is currently an issue scheduled for consideration before the planning commission or city council -- unless the other party involved in the issue is the City of St. George and not another person or entity.

- Near the end of each city council work meeting (normally held on the 2nd and 4th Thursdays at 4:00 PM) is now a standing agenda item "Reports from City Council Members". This gives each council member an opportunity to report to the mayor, council, and public regarding issues that have come out of recent board or committee meetings they have attended.

- At our first city council meeting in January, the mayor and council formed a new committee called the Mayor's Veterans Advisory Committee. We have already seen helpful recommendations and actions come out of this important committee! Several weeks later the council appointed three new members to the planning commission -- replacing three long-serving, wonderful public servants.

The council also replaced several long-serving members of the Dixie Center and Housing Authority boards. Other new boards and changes in assignments to existing boards are forthcoming.

- Construction of the Mall Drive Bridge is underway, as is construction to expand 3000 East and Little Valley Drive. Other road projects are in the planning stages and several major ones will be under construction soon, such as UDOT's Bluff Street and Sunset Boulevard intersection project.

- The Seegmiller Historic Farm project was funded and new buildings and features will soon begin appearing on the site in Little Valley.

- The All-Abilities Park is in its design phase after beginning with a public input phase that proved to be very helpful. It will be located at the front of the current Tonaquint Park on Dixie Drive.

- The City Council and I spent a very full day on March 25th listening to city department heads report on their short and longer-term capital projects and funding needs. We also spent several hours discussing impact fees. We are currently talking about priorities, the 2014-2015 city budget and our city mission and vision. All of this will help us in the development of our five-year strategic plan.

The City Council and I have much to do. I feel very fortunate to have the opportunity to serve with these wonderful elected officials as well as the incredible managers and all employees of the city! Please continue to stay in touch and involved as we move forward together.

WHAT WERE THEY THINKING?

By: Jimmie Hughes, City Council

Spring time in St. George. I don't know that there could be anything better. After a winter that brought an unusual heavy snow, it is sometimes difficult to remember that spring will come; grass will grow and once again be green; trees will blossom and grow leaves; flowers will bloom and the famous St. George sunshine will rule the day.

This is my favorite time of year. Or is it? I seem to recall that in the fall when we began to finally get a break from the summer heat and the temperature became pleasant and with anticipation of the approaching holidays, I may have told someone that fall in St. George is my favorite time of year. I also kind of enjoyed the very unusual snow storm this past winter as it was something new that my kids enjoyed tremendously. Although I have to admit that after a couple of weeks and it was still frozen on my driveway I was glad that this was not "normal". So what is my favorite time of year?

I think I like it all year long! Each season brings a change and a unique set of beauties. I like them all. Having something different is good. Each season has its own good and bad. People like the seasons of the year, are all different. Many of us have different likes and dislikes. Our lifestyles are as varied as the seasons and that affects how we view the ideal society. The challenge we have in a free society is to enjoy and allow all the differences and still maintain some sense of order as we live together in this great city, state and country.

Recently as I read the newspaper a guest editorial piece caught my eye. The article appeared with the title "What were they thinking?". This was an article criticizing a recent decision by the city council. The author obviously disagreed with the decision of the council and after detailing their opinion of what should have happened, and concluding that no rational person would make such a decision the author posed the question, "What were they thinking?"

On a different matter in a recent council meeting the council delayed a decision on awarding a bid for improvements on Little valley Road. A couple of residents expressed concern and the council agreed to wait until after a planned site visit to make a decision on the issue. After the meeting erroneous information was given to some residents and a fair amount of panic and concern was created. Many residents took time to contact the council and ask questions, express opinion and offer solutions. The two sides of the issue got together, agreed on some issues, disagreed on others and the council made some modifications to accommodate both sides. The road project will move forward with a better outcome for both sides.

Back to the editorial. As I read the article and contemplated the question posed, I came up with my own question for the author, "Why don't you ask?" If you want to know what I or anyone else is thinking just ask us. You have a right to know and I for one would much rather explain what I was thinking than have someone speculate or believe incorrect information. As an elected representative of the people I fully expect to be questioned, challenged, and yes even disagreed with. I welcome those who I represent to hold my feet to the fire and ask the hard questions. I do not guarantee that you will all like my answers all the time. Some may agree and some may not. At least you will be able to answer the question..."What were they thinking?" Most importantly, this can all be done with civility and respect.

It is not productive when many who criticize some of the decisions made by the council in print, online and radio do so without ever contacting those who have made the decisions to find out what we are thinking. Sometimes misinformation is presented on purpose. This seems to be done just to promote discontent and disrespect possibly as a way to obtain support for a specific position.

I prefer the second scenario. The residents in Little Valley picked up the phone, sent emails and asked the questions, all while being respectful. They didn't just complain about what they were hearing, they did something and I believe we all benefited from it. Just as important is the fact that as a council we listened. Many times new things come to light through this interaction and some opinions are even changed.

I believe that by having civil dialogue and finding out all the facts we not only make our city better but our country as a whole. I became involved to represent you. Please don't hesitate to contact me or any member of the council when you have a concern, question or an idea.

If you like spring, summer, winter or fall you are in for a treat when you live in St. George. As people we are just as different and we can all be just as enjoyable. It's your right and your duty to know what your elected officials are thinking.

Please, just ask!

LONG RANGE PLANNING HELPS RELIEVE TRAFFIC

In a rapidly growing area such as ours, reduction of traffic congestion is a perpetual concern for City officials. In 1973 the City commissioned its first Transportation Master Plan to help ensure that as the City developed, transportation facilities would exist to serve land use activities. Since that time, long-range plans have been continually updated and projects prioritized for construction. At this time, there are several large traffic projects under construction which take aim at reducing traffic congestion: Mall Drive Bridge, 3000 East corridor roads, Little Valley Road widening, Indian Hills Drive widening, two new roundabouts and an interchange at the intersection of Red Hills Parkway and Bluff Street.

Mall Drive Bridge

After eight years of planning, designing, and working to obtain environmental permits, the Mall Drive Bridge project is finally underway along with other access roads in the 3000 East Corridor which are situated in the rapidly growing southeast section of the City.

The Mall Drive Bridge is a 650 ft. bridge which will span the Virgin River and connect a new roadway from Mall Drive at Riverside Drive to 3000 East. It will be a five span concrete structure – wide enough to accommodate five lanes of traffic in the future plus sidewalks. Over the years, transportation improvement plans have identified Mall Drive Bridge as the best solution to relieve traffic congestion on River Road. Wadsworth Brothers began construction on February 3, 2013 and it will be completed in August 2014.

3000 East, Phases I and II

Also, situated in the east valley area are the 3000 East Street projects, which are planned to be a major traffic corridor for the Washington Fields and Little Valley areas. The 3000 East corridor will ultimately serve as a five-lane roadway extending from the Mall Drive Bridge to the Ft. Pierce Industrial Park. The roadway, which not long ago was a narrow farm road, has become one of the busiest roads in our community. With the many new homes and schools being built in the area, city engineers were challenged with widening and realigning a roadway and upgrading utility and drainage infrastructure with as little disruption to existing residents and traffic as possible. The intersection at 1580 South, 1450 South, and Mall Drive/Merrill Road will also be realigned and necessary infrastructure is being included to facilitate the installation of future traffic signals.

Little Valley Road Widening

The Little Valley area has seen tremendous growth including parks, recreation facilities, and two schools. As such, Little Valley Road will be widened to provide the necessary safety improvements along the corridor. This project will widen the roadway to a minimum width of 30 feet, rebuild and fill in sections of unimproved roadway and install curb, gutter, and sidewalk along the full length of one side of the road. Construction is anticipated to begin in March 2014 and be completed by summer.

Indian Hills Drive Safety Improvement Project

In order to improve the narrow southern section of Indian Hills Drive, federal and city funds are being used to widen the pavement as a two-lane road with additional shoulder width to accommodate bicyclists and pedestrians. Environmental and roadway design work are expected to be finished by spring of 2014 and construction will take place in the summer.

New Roundabouts

Two landscaped roundabouts will be installed this spring. Their purpose will be to beautify the City and enhance travel for motorists. A large roundabout will be placed at 400 East Tabernacle with landscaping in the center and on all four block corners. Another roundabout will be placed at 600 West and Tonaquint Drive. The 600 West Street will be widened including curb, gutter, and sidewalk along the east side of the roadway.

Bluff Street Interchange

UDOT and the City have partnered in another major traffic project on Bluff Street, the Red Hills Parkway/Bluff Street Interchange. This project will be a Center Exit Interchange. Unlike a typical Diamond Interchange, traffic will exit to the left to a single traffic signal in the center of the interchange. Bluff Street traffic will go over the Red Hills Parkway traffic. UDOT has chosen a contractor and construction will begin in April.

WATER & ENERGY SAVING TIPS

Water Saving Tips

Do you wonder how long you should run your irrigation system to give your lawn a good deep watering? Wonder no more – sign up for a Free Water Check. We will send out an intern to evaluate your irrigation system and provide you with a watering schedule to keep your lawn healthy while using less water. More information can be found at wcwcd.org/conservation or by calling Julie at 435-673-3617.

Set your irrigation clocks to water in the cool hours of the evening and night to reduce water lost to evaporation. Please water between 8:00 pm and 8:00 am. Water running off of your property is water that is wasted along with the money you pay for that water. You may need to adjust how you irrigate as well as how long the sprinkler system runs to avoid run off. A Free Water Check can help.

When purchasing water using appliances and fixtures such as clothes washers and toilets, look for the WaterSense™ label. These products have been independently tested to assure they function as expected and use less water than non-labeled projects. www.epa.gov/watersense.

More information can be found on the Water Services Department Facebook page.

Energy Savings Tips

Before it heats up outside, consider having your air conditioning unit serviced to make sure it is running as efficiently as possible. Change the filters regularly, every 30 to 45 days. It will improve the indoor air quality as well as help reduce air conditioning costs.

Consider putting your home on an energy diet.

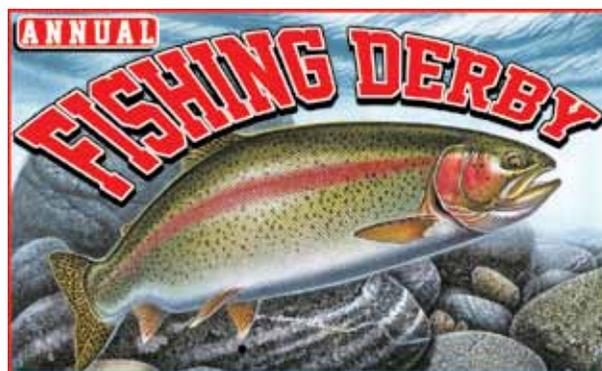

Programmable thermostats can trim heating and cooling costs by automatically reducing heating or cooling when you need it least.

LED Lighting has come a long way both in function and color options. LED use much less energy than the already energy efficient compact fluorescent models often called CFL's. LED's are well suited for outdoor lights that stay on all night, using less electricity and lasting much longer than traditional incandescent bulbs.

Look for the EnergyStar™ label when purchasing electric appliances. Appliances and other electronics can account for up to 20% of your electric bill. Purchasing EnergyStar™ models can save you money. Products that earn the EnergyStar™ use 10 to 15% less energy than standard models.

There are links on the Energy Services Department Facebook to an article in Consumer Reports on these products.

SPRING HAS SPRUNG IN ST. GEORGE!

Spring has arrived in St. George. Warm days, green yards and outdoor activities multiply. A few reminders for the spring season to keep our community the clean and inviting place we know it to be:

Spring cleaning! Emptying out the attic, basement or garage is a "rite of spring". Be sure to think about recycle and reuse. Donate that old couch or table to your favorite charity or church outlet. It's an opportunity to get rid of items that can be reused by others. Recycle paper and plastic products that might otherwise fill the landfill. For bulky items, such as old appliances, call Allied Waste at 628-2821 to schedule a pick up. Don't plant it in the yard...put it to reuse!

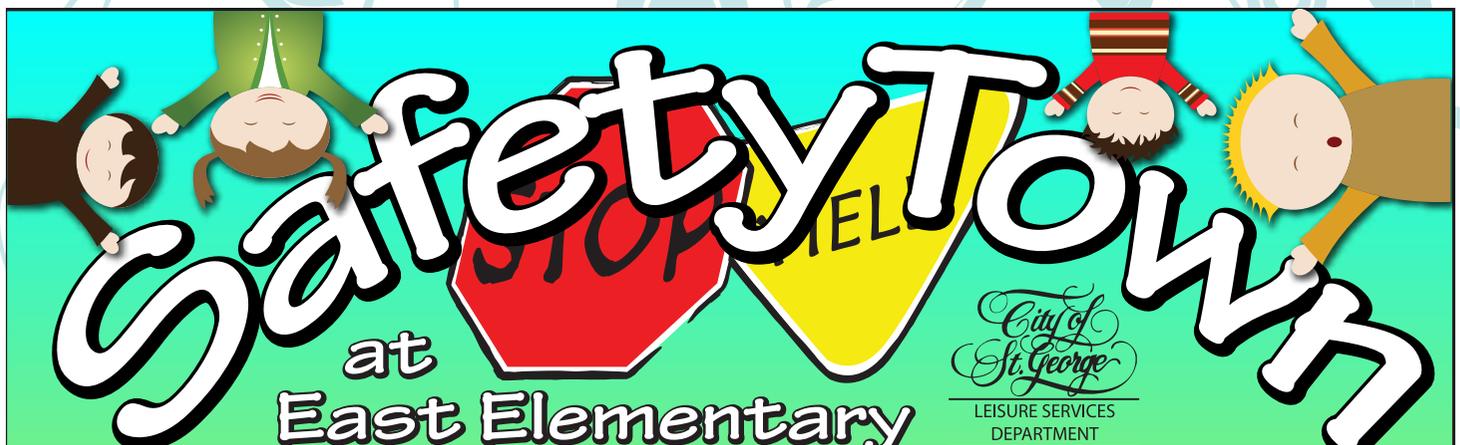

Yard sales! Spring in St. George is weather that is great for yard sales. Remember, please don't place signs on public property like power poles, crosswalks or stop signs. Yard sale signs are best on wire stakes or wood sticks. Be careful not to block the sidewalk or street with your sign. Make it safe for traffic and pedestrians to get to your sale. Don't forget to pick that sign up when you're done. Keep St. George clutter free!

Special events! Spring in St. George is the perfect weather for all sorts of special events. St. George hosts a number of outdoor activities for kids and adults. Festivals, art shows, marathons and games are happening throughout the city. Be sure that your event has the proper permits. Check with the Zoning office for rules on event advertising and signs. People waving signs at street side (called sign shakers) are not permitted, nor are signs on city property. Please observe speed limits and signs and watch for additional people on our streets, especially on busier thruways like Bluff, St. George Blvd or River Road. Check with the Chamber of Commerce, St. George Leisure Services or the St. George City web page for information on events in our area. And participate!

Weeds! They love the spring in St. George as much as we do. And though one man's weed is another man's flower its every property owners responsibility to keep home sites and developed areas clean of weeds, junk and debris. Please make sure that yard waste is appropriately disposed of, not pushed into gutters or dumped on adjacent empty lots. Tree limbs and green waste can be taken to the St. George City Reuse Center at 575 East Brigham Road between 7 AM and 4:30 PM. If you have questions call them at 627-4028. Remember that the Reuse Center is a great place to get mulch for your garden, so drop off your clippings and pick up some mulch.

ARBOR DAY CELEBRATION AT TONAQUINT PARK

By: Larry Shane, Parks Manager

On April 26th from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., the City of St. George, the Shade Tree Board along with Star Nursery will be hosting Arbor Day events at Tonaquint Park Nature Center. The celebration will include planting trees and enhancing trails through the Nature Center. There will be special activities for children including a poster contest and fun crafts.

Volunteers who have helped in previous years will enjoy seeing the fruits of their labor flourishing around the Nature Center. Trees and shrubs planted five or ten years ago are now providing a beautiful canopy for visitors and habitat for Nature Center residents, including the endangered Willow Fly Catcher, the star of the annual bird festival. Some of the larger resident birds include swans, mallards, wood ducks, and other aquatic species. The Nature Center is also home to some fairly large turtles and muskrats that often appear long enough to welcome visitors or take in some sun on the island of the newly expanded pond. While visiting the park, take a stroll on the trails and walk across the historic bridge that was actually washed away upstream two floods ago and appeared in the river next to Tonaquint Park after the last flood. With the help of some big equipment from the City of St. George's Streets Department, the donated use of a crane from McArthur Welding, abutments built by the Park Division's technical crew, and four Eagle Scout projects from Jeff McArthur's troop; the bridge is now part of the nature center trail. While standing on the bridge, one realizes how powerful water can be when something that large can be pushed miles downstream. How incredible it is that this bridge spent over five years under water and then reappeared not more than 100 yards from where it now sits?

The flood that washed that bridge downstream also destroyed much of the Nature Center. Volunteers from previous Arbor Day Celebrations have replanted and built trails throughout the flooded areas over the past decade. The Nature Center premises now include a large amphitheater built by Arbor Day volunteers, outdoor classrooms, a loop trail, historic retention dam that survived the floods (built by the Conservation Corp back in the 1940's) a small pine forest at the entry, and a cottonwood grove along the riverbed that conducts pond overflow to the Santa Clara River. This year's volunteers will be rewarded for their work with delicious hot dogs cooked to perfection by members of the Shade Tree Board. They will also receive potted trees to take home and plant in their own yard.

In addition to the day's festivities, the City of St. George Leisure Services will host the much anticipated groundbreaking ceremony of the All Abilities Park at Tonaquint. Architectural renderings of the new park will be on display. After the short ceremony a new I Am Able- Run, Walk and Roll event, for persons with disabilities, will take place. The organizers have two distance options to choice from and all participants will receive an event t-shirt and a light lunch served at the Nature Center. Fundraising opportunities will be announced for a chance to leave your permanent handprint on the park's memorial. Please come and enjoy our celebration of nature and the dream of seeing every child enjoying the simple joy of playing outside on Saturday, April 26. We are truly blessed of having such a unique city park within our community.

RED HILLS DESERT GARDEN CONSTRUCTION PROGRESS

Construction is nearing completion on this phase of the Red Hills Desert Garden project that is located directly east of Pioneer Park on Red Hills Parkway. This is the third phase of construction, which includes building the stream, waterfall feature, plaza area, trails, parking lot, planter areas, and irrigation. Previous phases of the project included forming the site; building the restroom, pump house, pipe for the stream, wall around the mixing station; and installing the retaining walls and faux rock for the slot canyon feature.

After the current phase of construction is complete there is still more work to be done. Currently there are various opportunities for contributions such as labor and/or materials to complete the final phase of the garden. For those interested in donating some examples for projects include purchasing and/or installing benches, shade structures, entry archways, and landscaping. Contributors will be permanently recognized within the garden for their donations and service. Contact Julie Breckenridge with the WCWCD at 673-3617 for more information on volunteer projects.

The Red Hills Desert Garden is a joint effort project between the following partners: City of St. George, Washington County Water Conservancy District, Virgin River Resource Management and Recovery Program, and Washington County on behalf of the Washington County Habitat Conservation Plan.

The purpose of the Red Hills Desert Garden is to create a world-class public education facility on water conservation and the native and endangered fish of the Virgin River. The garden will showcase low water use plants, which include plants native to southwestern Utah and other desert-adapted plants. Plants will have an identification tag to inform the public of what the plant is and its water requirements. The garden is intended to show homeowners what plants could be used in their own landscapes to help conserve water. The stream that runs the length of the project site will provide habitat for the native fish of the Virgin River. The public will be able to view the fish from stream crossings, view areas next to the stream, and viewing windows that are at the end of the slot canyon feature. Exhibits providing information on the native fish will be installed next to the viewing windows.

It is anticipated that the garden will be completed in the summer/fall of this year. Admission will be free and the garden will be open during regular park hours. For park hours information, visit <http://www.sgcity.org/parks/info.php>.

35TH ANNUAL ST. GEORGE ART FESTIVAL

Plan to attend the 35th Annual St. George Art Festival on Friday, April 18th and Saturday April 19th from 10am-6pm. The St. George Art Festival began 35 years ago, showcasing the many artists who called St. George their home. Since then it has expanded to include over 110 artists juried from hundreds of entries from throughout the United States. Festival attendees enjoy thousands of original works of art, live entertainment on two stages, a vibrant children's area, and foods of all kinds. Over 30,000 residents and visitors from around the West converge in the beautiful city of St. George on Easter weekend, one of the busiest travel weekends of the year. The festival is set in the stunning Town Square located at 50 South Main with its carousel, fountains and water features, flower gardens, and historic buildings. The Art Festival is known for consistently outstanding artwork, and treating artists as special guests.

The mild, sunny climate of St. George is particularly suited for this outdoor event. Artwork is displayed in booths designed individually by each artist. Categories include painting, ceramics and pottery, sculpture, drawing and pastels, photography, woodwork, jewelry, leather, mixed media, glass, metal, graphics, printmaking, fiber/wearables, and digital art. The show offers cash awards for Best of Show, Best 2D and 3D and ribbons for all categories. In addition, an artist's work is selected each year to grace the following year's poster.

This year's featured Artist, Randy Morris, has been a professional artist since 1981. He started his career by doing portrait work for friends and family. Since then he has evolved into creating "heartfelt, emotionally realistic images in watercolor" - working to capture individuals doing ordinary everyday things and finding the artistic beauty in those occurrences.

It has taken Randy years to learn to see the beautiful tranquility in simple expressions of life, and he hopes that by experiencing his art it will help start others on that journey.

Randy currently resides in Northern Utah. He has been the recipient of numerous awards and lasting friendships by way of his artistic career. He feels it a tremendous blessing, privilege, and responsibility to continue developing and exploring his artistic talents and gifts.

The St. George Art Festival is produced by the City of St. George Leisure Services Department. For additional information please visit www.sgartfestival.org or call 435-627-4500.

IRONMAN 70.3

They're talking about it all over the world. An endurance race so challenging they cut it in half. You'd think that would make it easier. Think again. IRONMAN 70.3 St. George still holds the reputation as the toughest. And yet, they still come. Over 2,500 athletes will be here to soak in the scenery, embrace the local support and battle the elements of nature. Hills mainly. Maybe a little wind, but most definitely hills. There is something beautiful in this rugged terrain. There is also something painful.

"I really enjoyed my time in Utah last year," he said. "I absolutely loved riding and running in Snow Canyon and I can't wait to come back this year."

Current Champion Brent McMahon proved his mettle on the course last year – he knows what it takes to win here and giving up the title is not something he'll quietly submit to.

The future of the sport includes several powerhouse athletes, but none more prominent than Sebastian Kienle. Kienle has won back-to-back 70.3 World titles and took third in Kona last year. He will certainly play a part in the outcome here.

Early settlers called this area "a poor and worthless place. A land turned inside out and upside down by terrible convulsions in some former age." If that's what the terrain looks like, imagine what your body must feel like after grinding through it, full out for 70.3 miles.

Here's the deal. The IRONMAN 70.3 circuit is quickly becoming one of the most popular distances for endurance athletes. The distance is certainly more conceivable for some than a full distance race. But in terrain like this it may be the most difficult distance to conquer.

Sure it's "only" 70.3 miles, but from the minute the gun sounds this is a race. To win, you have to be fast and there is no margin for error. It's all out, no holds barred. No dipping your toe in to test the water, this is dive in, put your head down and go. Every weakness is exploited. Every doubt is doubled. Every ache intensified. And when the best of the best show up, there is no mercy.

Last year, after somehow pushing through and conquering the toughest field on the toughest course, champion Brent McMahon summed it up when he thought about riding through Snow Canyon. "Beautiful spot," he said, "but man did that hurt!"

As the U.S. Pro Championship, St. George attracts a field of professional athletes that is second to none. More than 90 pros graced the landscape last year – there were more pros here than at either of the two the IRONMAN World Championships last year. It's an honest course they say. And that seems to attract the best.

"That's actually why I came here," said former World Champion Leanda Cave. "It's a big race," she said. It's the U.S. Pro Championship, the field is very strong and I think that's where I race my best."

The field of pros lining up for this year's event seems to support Cave's logic. The list includes an intimidating roster of past, present and future champions. Craig Alexander has won five World Titles, and he's not about to ride off into the sunset. Crowie chose St. George as one of his key races for 2014.

The women's field is stacked with IRONMAN Champions, Olympians and ITU athletes including reigning Champion Meredith Kessler and another local favorite Heather Wurtele. Kessler and Wurtele have already claimed titles in early IRONMAN races this year. Both of them know every detail of this course and they will likely be neck and neck as the race plays out. New to the field this year is Rachel Joyce who placed 2nd in Kona in 2013.

Simply put - this is the deepest field ever at a U.S. Pro Championship - probably the deepest we will see before the World Championships begin

St. George, Utah has become one of the most popular triathlon destinations in the world. Over 80 percent of athletes surveyed say that St. George is the best IRONMAN event they've ever been to. And what's not to love? "I was just blown away by how beautiful it is," said Olympic Silver Medalist, Lisa Norden.

Matty Reed called St. George "a pretty incredible place. It's definitely one of the most beautiful places I've been to," he said.

Leanda Cave laughed about how long it took her to drive through Snow Canyon State Park. "I kept taking photos on the way, she said, "It's just stunning." Last year Cave posted a picture of the swim venue at Sand Hollow State Park on Twitter with the caption: "Probably THE prettiest swim course I've ever seen."

IRONMAN is the premier endurance event in the world, and it seems to be tailor made for this area. Like the athletes involved, May 3, 2014 will certainly be a reflection of the past, present and future.

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know what happened in St. George, Toquerville, & Gunlock in 1953? Two photographers, who were on their way to worldwide fame, came to our area to take pictures for Life Magazine. Thirty four images were included in the ten page photo filled article that was published in 1954 and is a relatively unknown gem, especially as it shows this region that has subsequently experienced tremendous growth.

You have an opportunity to go back in time when children played in the street, drive-in movie theaters were popular, canning of the garden harvest took place, as well as farming, impromptu music, and visiting after church.

The photographers who took the 1953 pictures with Rolleiflex, Graflex, and Hasselblad cameras were Dorothea Lange and Ansel Adams. The text for the Life Magazine article, "Three Mormon Towns", which was much trimmed by the Life editors, was written by Dorothea Lange's and Maynard Dixon's son, Daniel Dixon. The Life editors also drastically cut the 135 photographs submitted to them by Lange from the over 1000 images taken in the collaboration. There is speculation that the negatives may have been mixed together. There is a lack of letters from Dorothea Lange, though several from Ansel Adams. Unless the Adams' negatives are with Dorothea's, they have disappeared. Also the Life Magazine article did not credit specific images to either one, only noting that it was a collaborative effort between Dorothea Lange & Ansel Adams.

The weekly Life Magazine published by Time Inc.'s publishing magnate Henry Luce cost twenty cents in 1954 and had a readership of over a million copies per week. The Magazine was wildly successful from the late 1930s to the late 1950's as exemplified by the publishing of Hemingway's Old Man & the Sea, as well as the memoirs of President Harry S. Truman. The motto for Life was, "To see Life; see the world".

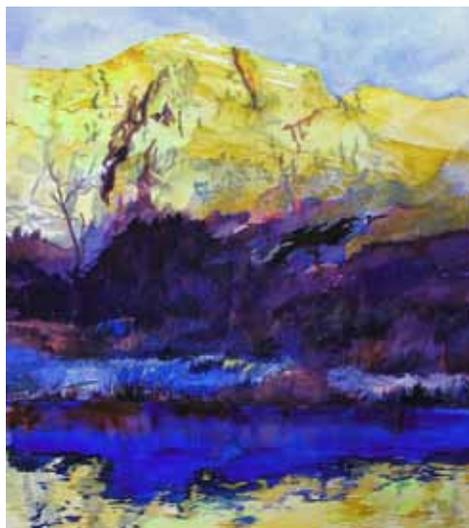

We are so pleased to be able to provide this glimpse of the past here at the St. George Art Museum. Dorothea Lange is best known for her Great Depression era photographs, including the iconic images, Migrant Mother (perhaps the best known photograph in the world); White Angel Bread Line; Ditched, Stalled, Stranded; and Migratory Cotton Picker. As an on and off again employee of the federal Resettlement Administration that became the Farm Security Administration, Lange's powerful photographs had such an impact that the federal government was convinced to set up camps to provide aid for the homeless and starving migrants.

Dorothea Lange was among the very first women to finally make an entrance into the general Art History books. Earlier books, as late as the 1970's, for students of the History of Art contained no women artists at all. Lange's pioneering work and stunningly moving image, Migrant Mother, gained her entrée to the hitherto male dominated world of art history. Indeed Migrant Mother has become THE representative image of the Great Depression.

Maynard Dixon, the important Western painter, was Dorothea Lange's first husband. When first together, they were a very popular couple in the cultural life of San Francisco. It was with Dixon that Lange first traveled to Utah. Due to the generosity of our supporters of the "For the Love of Art" Home Tour, Soup N; Bowl, Memberships, & Annual Appeal, the Museum was able to obtain two Dorothea Lange area landscapes purchased for the St. George Art Museum permanent collection.

Mark Hedengren, author of a recent book on the collaborative project of "Three Mormon Towns" of Adams and Lange, is represented by 8 photographs that he took in the vein of the 1953 photo shoot.

In addition, gracing the Museum is a large selection of the Permanent Collection of the St. George Art Museum.
